Two small arteries branching up from the main arteries on each side of the neck, and passing over the outside of the neck, and passing over the outside of the awbone, supply the face with blood. If the nose bleeds from the right nostril, for example, pass the finger over the edge of the right jaw till the beating of the artery is felt. Press hard upon it five minutes and the bleeding will cause.

Lime, salt and ashes are good fertilizers for potatoes. They may be applied about the hill before hoeing. Sulphate of lime (plaster of Paris) is well applied by sifting it upon the tops when they are wet as soon as they break through, and again when about six inches high. The yield is considerably increased by these applications.

HENRY MAYHEW, alias Morgan, reed to Cambridge, is pronounced to be one of the most desperate cases on the crimi-nal record. Immediately after his incar-nation at Cambridge he set to work smashing things generally. He broke the entire stock of wristlets and ankle ornaments in possession of the Sheriff burnt his bed, broke to pieces his bunk smashed the plates and broke the knives amasined the plates and broke the knives and forks. A couple of blackamiths were called in, who riveted him down more securely, and a guard was placed over the jail at night to prevent his escape.

minded one of those toy engines and cars that the children wind up and set to whirling along over the oil cloth in a most tolent manner. But it must be said that they are the most pleasant cars to ride in that have yet been invented. They have none of that postle, jar, hammer and bang that make the ordinary gauge a minisance. The wheels are small, the cars hang low, and there is scarcely any preceptible motion; they run as smoothly as if they were sliding along over oil. In point of speed, the movement is just as rapid as upon any other road, and they ascend grades which would be utterly impracticable for a full grown becomotive."

Amidst all the rest of his remarks, he establishes one important truth, that the arrow-gauge accomplishes the great economic mean—the largest results possible with the least expenditure possible. It is hard, however, to get a way at once from the idea that we must use massive machinery to handle the traffic of a railroad, and we do not stop to look at the cost.
